

Battle For A Cure

Students Raise Money For Juvenile Diabetes

Carle Place High School recently donated over $16,000 to the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation. The money was raised during their annual Battle of the Classes: Battling for a Cause event, where students competed against each other in activities such as pictionary, ultimate Frisbee, volleyball and obstacle courses. Various local Carle Place and Westbury businesses, such as the New York Islanders, Bikram Yoga, Benihana, and La Bottega, donated prizes for the top fundraisers for the event.

Carle Place students engaged in some friendly competition and class spirit to raise money for juvenile diabetes research.

Carle Place students and faculty were able to raise over $16,000 for the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation during their annual Battle of the Classes: Battling for a Cause event.
