Fashion Show Encompasses School, Community

Last month, the Carle Place Key Club hosted its 10th annual Student-Teacher Fashion Show. More than 80 participants took part in the show, which was comprised of Key Club members and teachers. Models donned wardrobe from Men's Wearhouse, Carle Place, Karako Suits, Carle Place, Serafina's Design, Lord & Taylor, Manhasset, and BASS, Carle Place.

Students also modeled the Carle Place Alumni brand: GOAT USA.

Female models had professional hair and makeup provided by Studio Novelle of Carle Place. Nearly 50 local vendors and Carle Place families provided various raffle prizes and large donations for this event. Chipotle hosted a kickoff fundraiser to the event and 33 percent of proceeds were directed to the Key Club's charity.

All of the proceeds from this event will be donated to the Amputee Coalition. Students choose this charity due to Caleb Giordano (Class of 2016) and Gracie Giordano's (Class of 2019) involvement with the organization.

Jack Richmond, CEO and president of the Amputee Coalition attended the event. He traveled from the organization's headquarters in Tennessee. He commended the students for learning at a young age the importance of giving back to others.
